Mission 2: Inhuman Resources (200 pts)

Affected Areas:

Human Resources
Accounting
Employees

Problem:

The workers at Super Fun park are not feeling very happy or very fun. Something is wrong and it's starting to show. All of the workers are upset and feel over-worked. Unfortunately, Human Resources doesn't have a centralized database about its employees, so it has no way of knowing exactly what has gone wrong. Every time they try to help, they just seem to make matters worse. To make matters worse, the employees at Human Resources are starting to feel upset themselves.

To help get to the bottom of the problem, they've decided to keep better records of all of the employees at the park. They're going to convert all of their paper records into a database management system, and they've hired you to help.

They want to be able to use the system to see how often people are calling out sick, who is working too many hours, who has too few responsibilities and who has too many, and who is coming in late and early. They also want to see which managers have too many employees and which have too few, as they suspect a lot of recent issues with bosses are rooted in stress caused by management being over-worked.

They've hired you to build the database that will get them all of this information and more. Can you do it?